Product Description

Glass Clay Charcoal Soil Crushing Hammer Crusher Mill PC 1000x800 1000x1000 Model Crushing Plant

Product Description

This product is crushed by the impact of high-speed hammer body and material. It has the characteristics of simple structure, large crushing ratio, high production efficiency, and no need of primary crushing. It can be broken in two forms of dry and wet. It is suitable for crushing medium and medium hardness and brittle materials in mining, cement, coal, metallurgy, building materials, highway, combustion and other departments. The equipment can adjust the gap between hammer head and liner according to the user's requirements, and change the discharge particle size to meet the different needs of different users.

Working Principle

The materials go into the crushing chamber and stack on the middle bracket specially designed in the machine, and the hammer runs in the gap between the middle bracket, and the materials will be continuously crushed and then fall down. The fell small materials will be further crushed by the hammer running with high speed and finally discharged after being screened by the arc grating plate.
